FEDERALS FLEE ACROSS RIVER

ATTACK OF REVOLUTIONISTS DRIVE FEDERALS TO SEEK SAFETY IN U. S.

Presidio, Tex., Dec. 29.—Driven back into their entrenchments by the death-dealing artillery and rifle fire of the insurgents, the federals are swarming across the river into the United States at this point and surrendering in large numbers to the United States cavalry. Scores of federals are already held in rapidly equipped military prisons.

All indications point to a complete insurgent victory, and it is probable Gen. Ortega will be in Ojinaga by noon tomorrow. Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar is the only federal commander left in Ojinaga.

Fighting between the insurgents and the federals began at Mulato, twenty-seven miles east of Ojinaga, this afternoon about 4:30 o'clock. A desperate struggle ensued, according to couriers arriving in Ojinaga. Both armies were drawn up in battle formation and reinforcements soon arrived. The artillery fire of both sides was destructive.

Practically the entire garrison from Ojinaga was rushed to Mulato and Gen. Toribio Ortega's main body came up from the rear.

Driven from their position and cut off from Ojinaga, many federals crossed the river into the United States. Major MacNamee at once dispatched a detachment of United States cavalry to disarm them and bring them into Presidio as prisoners.

Scores of other federals are reported throwing down their arms and trying to cross the river into the United States. The entire garrison of Ojinaga, it is declared, has mutinied in face of the terrific fire of the enemy's guns and is attempting to cross to the American side, also.

Gen. Galazar and Gen. Orozco are making desperate efforts to rally their men and it is said that it is the federal volunteers who are doing all the fighting.

AFTER DISHWASHING Use Gwin's Favorite Cream

That's what a lady told us yesterday. She said "I always use Gwin's Favorite Cream after washing dishes, and my hands never chap, but 100 years I'll use it in trouble."

Use it after dishwashing, use it after driving out, use when you come in from the show at night, use it after motorcycling, use Gwin's Favorite Cream for chapped hands, rough skin, peeled lips, sallow complexion and as a skin beautifier. It is neither sticky nor greasy, dries freely and gloves can be worn soon after using it.

Men will find Gwin's Favorite Cream an excellent lotion to use after shaving.

SOCIALISTS HOLD STATE MEETING

Oklahoma City, Dec. 30.—With delegates present from all parts of the state, the annual state convention of the socialist party convened in the superior court room Monday. More than three hundred socialists are attending the convention, and during the afternoon session the court room was crowded with delegates and spectators.

E. L. Moore of Wagoner, was selected as temporary chairman and H. M. Sinclair of Oklahoma City was made temporary secretary.

High on the back of the presiding officers chair and on the clerk's desk to the chairman's left were pairs of highly polished steel horns, the throne ornaments of the ancient German princes who ruled over the barbarian tribes in which socialism was born 500 years before the Christian era. One set of the horns is of monstrous size, probably as large, as any ever seen in the southwest. The presence of the horns is in commemoration of the early day socialists, who assembled in the mountain fastness of ancient Germany and formulated plans for raids upon Roman civilization and its predatory wealth.

After temporary officers were named for the convention the remainder of the day was spent in naming various committees, among which were the committees on permanent organization, publicity and party tactics.

Delegates to the convention say they are elated over the showing made during the last election and prophesy that the 41,262 votes polled for the socialist candidate in the last state election will be increased to 80,000 when voting time comes around again. All delegates favor putting into the field full county and state tickets at the next election and Secretary Sinclair made the prediction that when the votes are counted the socialist party will be second in numerical strength.

Many familiar faces appeared at the convention, but Pat Nagel's was not among them. Whether or not the Kingfisher chief will attend the convention this year could not be learned Monday.

To Connect Frisco-M O & G. Lines.

The survey of a five-mile line to connect Grove, Okla., with Copeland, on the main line of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf, is being made by Charles D. Bennett. The citizens of Grove have a Frisco spur that connects the city eastward with the Monett-Paris line, but the city has no connection westward with other Oklahoma points. The intention is to build this line connecting the Frisco with the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf. The money for the construction has been raised by the citizens of Grove and Copeland, and the line, when completed, will be operated by them. The expense includes a bridge over Grand river.

It is announced by officials of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf that the receivership of that road, caused recently by the failure of a Paris, France bank, will not interfere in any way with present extensions of the company's lines. The receivership covers all the company's property in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas.—Denison Herald.

OKLAHOMA TEACHERS MEET AT TULSA

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 30.—The eighth annual convention of the Okla. Educational association was opened in Tulsa Monday with approximately 3,000 teachers in attendance, representing every section and community in the state. Every moment of the three days convention will be crowded with business. Tuesday there will be more than thirty departmental meetings aside from the general session and election of officers in the afternoon. An important session at which new methods in education will be discussed will mark the convention on the closing day Wednesday.

This year, for the first time officers will be elected by the new method of nominating and balloting on the floor of the convention, thus giving only members of the association in attendance a chance to vote. Formerly the selection of officials was left to the electoral commission members of which were named by the various county and district organizations. A new president and secretary treasurer will be chosen Tuesday.

The annual address of President Stratton D. Brooks, in which politics in the public schools were severely condemned and a business foundation for their operations warmly advocated and an address from Stuart A. Courtis of Detroit, an expert on school standardization, featured the first general session of welcome and R. H. Wilson, state superintendent of public instruction, responded on behalf of the committee.

At the night session John E. Cunkel president of the International Newsboys' association was the principal speaker. When he had concluded the 3,000 people hearing him were convinced that with proper handling the "bad boy" of the schoolroom could be controlled. J. F. Kimball, superintendent of school at Temple, Texas, also spoke at the night session.

President Brooks in his annual address, comprehensively reviewed the management of schools under the present plan. He pointed out that as long as the public schools belong to the people there necessarily must be some political connection. But the selection of teachers, he said, should be left to the superintendent and should be made on the strength of merit alone.

Meet to Discuss Labor Legislation.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—A large gathering of men and women who are regarded as authorities on industrial relations assembled at the Shoreham Hotel today for the opening of the seventh annual meeting of the American Association for Labor Legislation. The meeting, which is to continue over tomorrow, is held in conjunction with the annual session of the American Political Science Association.

The two days' program has been arranged to bring out prominently the plans of the Federal industrial relations commission, recently appointed by President Wilson. Chairman Frank P. Walsh of that commission, delivered the opening address today and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, of New York and Prof. John R. Commons of Wisconsin, also members of the commission, led in the informal discussion.

The session tomorrow morning will be presided over by Henry R. Seager of Columbia University and will be devoted to a discussion of the question, "Is Compulsory Sickness Insurance Practicable in America?" One of the speakers will be James M. Lynch former president of the International Typographical Union and now New York State Commissioner of Labor.

Tomorrow afternoon the conference will discuss "Working Hours in Continuous Industries." Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts will preside and among the participants in the discussion will be Ernest Freund of Chicago University Law School, President of the Order of Railway Conductors, S. Thurston Ballard, a prominent manufacturer of Louisville and B. M. Manly, special agent of the United States bureau of labor investigation of the iron and steel industry.

MAY BE NO STRIKE

CONFERENCE BETWEEN TELE-GRAPHERS AND FRISCO OFFICIALS BRING RESULTS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 29.—There will be no strike of telegraphers on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, according to indications tonight. The strike committee of the Order of Railway Telegraphers will meet the receivers of the railroad again tomorrow in an attempt to reach an agreement.

Conferences that began this morning continued, with one intermission until late this evening, and when adjournment was taken for the night James W. Lusk, chairman of the receivers, said he thought an agreement would be reached.

The outcome of the conferences thus far may be summarized as follows:

The railroad company has agreed to a wage increase, but not to the 15 per cent increase asked by the grievance

Eyes Tested Frames Fitted
Headache relieved almost instantly by Properly Fitted Glasses.
A. D. COON, Optician and Jeweler.

The railroad committee has agreed to pay overtime but not double overtime, as asked by the men.

The chief points now at issue are technical matters regarding the conditions of labor.

It was announced at Frisco headquarters this afternoon, but not by the receivers personally, that the company had polled the telegraphers and agents and that the result indicated most of the men would stay at their posts. The person responsible for this announcement—a representative of the company who is in close touch with the controlling officials—said 90 per cent of the agents had indicated a willingness to stay with the company and that not more than 300 men would go on strike if the order should be issued.

Telephone recruits were operated to day over most of the system. C. W. Nixon, receiver and chief operating officer, did not say whether this would continue if a strike is averted. He said: "We already had the telephone system and it is not a new thing to us. We employ operators to transmit orders over telephone lines and we pay them the same as we pay the telegraphers."

Ada was one of the places where a phone was installed to replace the telegraph instruments, which have been taken out, and all train orders and other business now come by phone instead of by telegraph as formerly. However, if the strike is called off, as now seems possible, the instruments will be restored as the phone service cannot be made as satisfactory as the telegraph in handling orders.

Somehow the suggestion of a general street working next summer made by Y. N. Finley does not seem to have received a very hearty response. Mr. Finley showed the right sort of civic pride and spirit, but probably there is too much work involved in his plan to commend itself to many.

Large Wheat Acreage

The farmers of Oklahoma have planted what may prove to be the largest acreage of winter wheat in the history of the state. The acreage harvested last spring was 1,633,000. It is believed that more than 2 million acres have been planted this fall.

The planting has been above maximum not only in the "wheat belt" in the northern counties, but in many of the southern counties, where wheat has not been extensively grown, farmers have taken advantage of the highly favorable season to "plunge" in the wheat business.

Winter grazing of wheat in Oklahoma, says the Oklahoma Farmer, is one of the farmer's best assets. It is estimated that this winter pasturage is worth $1 a head a month, and this price is commonly paid. The grazing continues for three or four months and pays the cost of plowing and planting.

This season many fields are so luxuriant that one acre supports slightly more than one, but hardly two, head of cattle. The green wheat not only fattens, but puts livestock in splendid condition for heavy feeding for market.

The Ada normal faculty is represented at the Tulsa meeting of the state teachers' association by President C. W. Briles and Profs. M. L. Perkins and R. G. Sears. Others may possibly go this afternoon.

ROAD BUILDING

TEXAS BUILDING GOOD ROADS

Over Four Hundred Miles in Course of Construction—Many Counties Are Interested.

According to reports recently compiled for the consideration of the Texas Welfare commission, there are now in course of construction 437 miles of good roads within the state, with a prospect of double this amount during the next 12 months. On its face this looks like a large per cent. of improved highways for Texas, but on an area basis it is a small showing, and to secure the per cent. of mileage of good roads that the banner state, Connecticut, has we will have to build 525,000 miles more.

Several of the largest undertakings of the south are now contemplated in the state, and one or two have taken tangible form, writes Ida M. Darden, in the Houston Post. The Red river-to-the-gulf highway, the much talked of and long hoped for trans-state road, when built, will have a total mileage of 630, and will serve more than fifty million acres of the state's most desirable agricultural land. Two-thirds of the counties along the route of this proposed highway are now building their links of the great thoroughfare. It has been estimated by the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's association, who keeps close tab on road building throughout the state, that this highway will be completed by 1914, at the present rate of construction. It is held that the improvement of roads adds $10,000 per mile to contiguous property, and on this basis the building of the river-to-the-gulf highway will give a net increase in property values to property along this roadway of $400,000,000.

The counties through which this highway will pass are Galveston, Harris, Waller, Brazos, Robertson, Falls, Limestone, McLennan, Hill, Navarro, Johnson, Ellis, Tarrant, Dallas, Denton, Collin, Grayson and Cooke, the road to be double-tracked from Hearne north.

Another highway of state importance is the Dallas-Texas highway, beginning at Dallas and passing through the counties of Collin, Grayson, Fannin, Lamar, Red River and Bowie, which will cost approximately $600,000. There are 2104 miles of public highways in these counties, and the building of the trunk line will probably result in the improvement of the entire mileage of the counties, as well as stimulate road building in counties adjoining the project.

GRADE HALF MILE FOR $7.50

Riley County, Kansas, Outfit Did the Work in One Day—Three Men Were Necessary.

One traction engine, one road grader, and three men graded a half mile of road in one day. This was accomplished on a Riley county road at a cost of $7.50, says Kansas Industries. The engine, running on kerosene, consumed fuel at the rate of 20 gallons a day which, at a cost of 7 1/2 cents a gallon, cost $1.50. Three men were necessary to do the work—one to run the engine and two on the grader.

With the exception of the engineer, the work can be handled easily by laborers. The cost of road grading ranges from $15 to $50 a mile, depending on the soil and condition of the road, the width graded, and the price of labor.

Grass and Live Stock.

Grass and live stock should go hand in hand. There is no farm, in my judgment, which, if properly handled and kept at least one-half of the time in grasses and clovers, and gradually brought under a proper system of rotation, would not produce more, in fact, double the crops which it now does, and yet constantly be growing better and better.

Chickens and Hogs.

If a woman can hate anything she hates a chicken-eating hog. The chickens don't know the difference between that kind and the other, so keep them apart, and keep peace in the family.

PLANNED TO BRING IN OIL WELL TO-DAY

The report of the oil strike near Calvin seems to have been a trifle premature, or else if one was made it was kept from the knowledge of all but a very few people. At least that is the general trend of the information received by the News today.

According to the latest report the oil sand had been reached and a considerable flow of gas struck. It was intended to bring in the well this afternoon, but at the hour of going to press it could not be learned whether this had been done or not.

The well is on the Finchum place, nine miles east of Allen, two miles north of Citra and seven miles south or southeast of Calvin.

This evening the Majestic will present a two-part thriller entitled, "The Runaway Freight." The climax of the pictures comes when a daring man leaps through space to the top of the runaway train and stops it in time to save a collision. "Giving Bill a Rest" is the other picture of the evening. Coming tomorrow—Mary Pickford in "Caprice."

M. E. Clark arrived today from Tuscaloosa, Alabama, and is visiting E. C. Hearne. However, he came to Oklahoma with the idea of making his home here.

BULL MOOSERS WILL MEET FEBRUARY 25

Oklahoma City, Dec. 30.—The delegate convention of the Progressives in Oklahoma City on Wednesday, February 25. The call will be issued by Chairman Alva McDonald in a few days. The state central committee will be completely reorganized.

Mr. McDonald said today that the progressives would nominate tickets from constable to governor, and will organize for the most strenuous campaign yet conducted. The reorganization of the committee, with precinct and county conventions a few days prior to the state convention, will be similar to the plan promulgated by the Republicans in their meeting here Saturday.

The Progressives, according to Mr. McDonald, will extend a welcome to Republicans or any others, who may wish to support the movement for a cleanup in state politics, and to help the cause of good government.

A Broncho film is always a guaranty of something worth while, and this evening the De Sota will present a three reel picture of this make entitled, "The Belle of Yorktown." This is a story of colonial days and carries one back to the time when Washington was living and the country new. This is far above the ordinary colonial pictures.

Washingtonians Feel Aggrieved

Washington, D. C. Dec. 30.—It is putting it mildly to say that the people of Washington feel aggrieved over President Wilson's act in canceling the New Year reception at the White House. However sound and reasonable may have been the president's reasons for abolishing the time-honored custom, the people feel that he has deprived them of one of their most cherished privileges. New Year's Day in the capital without the White House reception is going to be a strange New Year indeed, particularly for the older inhabitants who have stood in line times without number and awaited their turn to shake hands with the president.

The historical records show that the New Year's reception at the White House dates back to the very founding of the national capital. Within the memory of the present generation the program for the function has remained practically unchanged. First to be received were the members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps, followed by the judiciary, former cabinet officers, heads of government departments and bureaus, members of District military organizations and the oldest inhabitants of the District of Columbia. Beginning at 12:30 o'clock and continuing for about two hours the president greeted the plain citizens, many of whom had been in line since early morning.

SEES DEVIL IN EYES, KILLS WIFE AND CHILD

Cincinnati, Dec. 29.—"I saw the devil walking in their eyes."

This was the reason Robert Maloney gave today for having killed his wife and baby daughter in a local hotel last night. His wife's maiden name was Othello Harriman and they were married two years ago in Little Rock. Her father lives at Cushing, Okla. Maloney was a magician and he registered at the hotel under his stage name of J. R. Willard.

The double tragedy occurred in the Maloneys' room. Mrs. Maloney and her baby, 1 year old, were shot as they slept. Immediately afterward Maloney rushed from his room and out to a suspension bridge where he was captured by a policeman.

Maloney cried repeatedly in his cell that he had to kill his wife "because he saw the demon of darkness in her eyes and in those of the baby."

"I hated to do it, but it had to be done," he cried when the coroner questioned him. The coroner expressed the opinion that Maloney's mind was unbalanced. The magician had not had an engagement for a month. He said he was the son of "Willard, the Wizard," who had retired and now was living in San Antonio.

May Be Absorbed by the S. P.

Denison, Tex., Dec. 30.—It is stated by A. H. Shields, general passenger and freight agent, and secretary and treasurer of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf railway of Texas, that the stretch of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf railway in Texas, extending from the Red River to Denison, ten miles, was not affected by the receivership process of the line outside of the state recently ordered by the federal court. It is rumored in railroad circles that the railroad will probably pass into the hands of the Southern Pacific Railroad, which is said to have been seeking control of the line for some time.

BOOZE BRINGS FANCY PRICE AT DURANT

Quite a large deal was pulled off in Durant Saturday night in the liquor business. A stranger landed in town with two quarts of extra good whiskey. He thought they should bring a good price, and after a little scheming had them in shape. He went to a horse jockey of this city by the name of Hamilton, and secured his services in pulling off the sale. Neither Hamilton nor the stranger can be found today, and probably are many miles from Durant.

The facts as given to a Democrat reporter are about as follows: The "stranger" procured two ten gallon barrels, petitioned them off, filled one side with 96 per cent pure Blue river water and the other side with a quart of extra good whiskey. The small side filled with whiskey had a faucet in it, and the pure liquor could be drawn from the keg. Both barrels were fixed in this manner. He got Hamilton to put some Durant parties "next" to where they could buy some fine whiskey. This Hamilton did, and in a few minutes the "stranger" had a buyer. He would draw a drink of the pure liquor from the keg, and let his prospective buyers sample the goods. The "stranger" wanted quite a large sum for the booze, and the prospective buyer thought it was too much, but just a few minutes before the north bound Katy train was due an agreement of sale was reached and the money paid. Just what the sum paid for the two kegs could not be learned; some state it was $70 while others say it was $100. At the Katy station the two men purchased tickets for Caney. Durant parties went to Caney on the next train, but no trace of the "stranger" and jockey could be found. This is the first deal of this kind to be pulled off in Durant. No doubt the next time this Durant party buys a barrel of booze he will take the trouble to see that there are no petitions in the barrel and that he is not buying pure water.—Durant Democrat.

ILLUSTRIOUS DEAD OF THE YEAR

New York, Dec. 30.—In looking back over the toll of the months which make up the year now nearing its close, it seems as if death had exacted an unusual harvest from the ranks of men who had attained, for one reason or another, special prominence in the theatre of the world's activities. Of course, no year passes without leaving an impressive necrological roll, but the one about to take its departure has made some rather startling erasures from the scroll of living fame.

Two rather interesting facts serve to distinguish the death list of 1913 from those of most previous years. The first is that the names of comparatively few women are included and the second is the almost total absence of deaths by violence. The only person of world-wide prominence who met a violent death during the year was King George of Greece, who was assassinated by a fanatic.

The American world of finance and industry has made distinguished contributions to the mortality record, that of J. Pierpont Morgan naturally attracting the greatest measure of public attention. Other notables in the list were Henry M. Flagler, the Standard Oil magnate and railroad builder; Adolphus Busch, the St. Louis brewer; Edward Morris, one of the heads of the Chicago meat packing industry; James R. Keene, famous as a Wall street speculator; Anthony N. Brady, lighting and traction magnate, and Benjamin Altman and Robert C. Ogden, New York merchants.

In addition to Mr. Morgan and Mr. Flagler, both powerful factors in the railroad world, there passed away during the year a number of prominent railroad executives, active or retired. These included William W. Finley, president of the Southern Railway; Roswell Miller, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; Thomas M. Emerson, president of the Atlantic Coast Line; James McCrea, former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Horace G. Burt, former president of the Union Pacific, and J. R. Parrott, president of the Florida East Coast Railway.

The army and navy also have sustained serious losses, including Lieut. Col. David Du Bose Galliard, who directed the Culbra cut engineering work on the Panama canal, besides several other well known general officers. Eight rear admirals, active or retired, have joined the great majority. Great Britain lost her famous soldier, Field Marshal Viscount Wolseley, and Admiral Sir Archibald L. Douglas, former Lord of the British Admiralty. France lost Gen. Andre, her former war minister.

Royalty made few contributions to the mortality record of the year. With the exception of George I. of Greece no reigning monarch in Europe died during the twelve months. The Dowager Empress of China passed away and Menelik of Abyssinia was again reported dead. The British nobility lost the Duke of Abercorn and the Duke of Sutherland, the latter one of England's greatest land owners.

Death deprived the College of Cardinals of five of its members, among them Cardinal Oreglia, the dean of the Sacred College, and the famous Cardinal Rampolla, the former Papal Secretary of State. The most notable loss in American church circles has been the Rt. Rev. William Croswell Dane, the venerable Episcopal bishop of Albany. Other deaths recorded among American churchmen are those of two Catholic bishops, Hogan of Kansas City and Kenny of St. Augustine.

Some of the deaths of the year were not unexpected. John Fritz, famous for the part he played in the development of the iron and steel industry in the United States, had passed his ninetieth year. So had Alfred Russell Wallace, the famous British scientist. Earl Nelson was in his ninetieth year and Sir Richard Scott, senator and long a prominent figure in Canadian public affairs, was eighty-eight.

From the ranks of politics and diplomacy have been taken many figures of national or international prominence. Here again, however, the foreign mortality roll is far in excess of that of the United States. The great majority of American statesmen and diplomats who passed away during the year had previously retired from the arena of public affairs. The most notable exceptions were William J. Gaynor, mayor of New York City; Jeff Davis, United States senator from Arkansas; Gen. Joseph F. Johnston, United States senator from Alabama, and Timothy L. Woodruff, former lieutenant governor of New York and later a leader of the Progressive party.

A number of former members of the United States senate passed away, among them John B. Henderson of Missouri, Frank O. Briggs of New Jersey, John Martin of Kansas, and Thomas W. Palmer of Michigan. Frank S. Black, ex-governor of New York and at one time an influential figure in Republican politics, was included in the mortality record of former governors. Others were William J. Northen of Georgia and Gen. Samuel J. Crawford, who was the civil war governor of Kansas.

Under the head of diplomats may be placed the name of Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, who was the American minister to Spain at the beginning of the Spanish-American war.

Among the serious losses sustained by other countries were Viscount Hayashi, Japanese statesman and diplomat; Prince Katsura, three times premier of Japan; August Ferdinand Bebel, the German Socialist leader; Emile Ollivier, former premier of France; Edouard Lockroy, French statesman and writer; Sigismundo Moret, former premier of Spain; Rt. Hon. George Wyndham, former Chief Secretary for Ireland; Alford Lytton, former Secretary of State for the Colonies in the British ministry; Baron Fava, former Italian ambassador at Washington; Gen. Nicholas de Pierola, former president of Peru; Tancrede Auguste, president of Hayti; Dr. Manuel E. Arraujo, president of Salvador; Manuel Bonilla, president of Honduras; Dr. Theodor von Holleben, former German ambassador at Washington, and Sir John Gordon Sprigg, four times premier of Cape Colony.

In the ranks of the law, science, education, art, journalism and general affairs the vacancies have been numerous and many of them conspicuous. Henri Rochefort is perhaps the best known representative of journalism, and Alfred Austin and Joaquin Miller of the world of letters. American literature also lost Charles Major, one of the most popular of the modern novelists.

E. M. Holland and Aubrey Boucicault were perhaps the most noted players who passed away during the year. Other losses sustained by the American stage were Della Fox, the light opera comedienne, and George Thatcher, the veteran minstrel.

The educational world is represented in the mortality list by Dr. Andrew S. Draper, Commissioner of Education for the state of New York and former president of the University of Illinois. The art of painting lost Sir Alfred East, president of the Royal Society of British Artists, and American sculpture Louis Saint-Gaudens and Franklin Simmons. Distinguished representatives of the legal profession were Lord Gorell, the eminent British jurist, and Henry Billings Brown, former associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Among the scientists may be mentioned Dr. Lewis Swift, noted astronomer, and Prof. John Milne, the English authority on earthquakes, in addition to the famous veteran, Alfred Russell Wallace.

The fields of distinction are multiplying and broadening and Fame fashions her garlands for an ever increasing number. Thus, when the Reaper appears, the swath must be a constantly widening one.

In a long but unclassified list of the dead of the year may be mentioned the names of the following: Congressman Timothy D. (Big Tim) Sullivan, a unique figure in the political life of New York City; Charles Tellier, the discoverer of the cold storage process; Lord Avebury (Sir John Lubbock), who was equally distinguished as a parliamentarian, banker and writer; Carl Hagenbeck, the world's most noted animal collector; James Farley, who achieved wide notoriety as a strike breaker; Bernard Quaritch, the London dealer in rare books; James Ross, one of the builders of the Canadian Pacific Railway; Lady Dorothy Nevill, noted for her published reminiscences; Gen. J. H. Kidd, civil war veteran and noted Indian fighter; Rosa Sarto, sister of Pope Pius X.; Thomas A. Sperry, founder of the trading stamp business; Bradley Martin, a well known social leader in New York and London; Sir George Orby Wombwell, the last of the officers who took part in the charge of the Light Brigade, and Harriet Tubman Davis, an ex-slave who was known as the conductor of the "underground railroad."

Flowers Used as Food.
It is not a matter of common knowledge that in a great many countries nearly all the flowers are used as articles of food. We sometimes use nasturtiums in salads, but we would hardly think of growing lilies for the mere purpose of boiling them down to make a dish resembling spinach.
